Decorative Edged Rhinocast® Access Covers

The major redevelopment of the Westgate suburb in Auckland saw a new 2.7 hectare flagship shopping centre open in October 2015.

Throughout the new shopping centre, services such as power and data required access chambers. ACO has a wide range of access covers to suit both internal and external applications, and all visual design requirements.

With a high quality aesthetic finish, designers and contractors needed an access cover solution that would minimise the visual impact on the floor surfaces.

ACO's Rhinocast® class B access covers were chosen as the solution. With a 12mm or 40mm stainless steel decorative edge available as standard, the floor tiles were accommodated with ease. Once installed, the access covers blended in throughout the public areas of the mall.
